Gateway to Study Abroad

A "no tuition promise" or "tuition-free promise" typically refers to a commitment made by colleges, universities, or educational institutions to cover the full cost of tuition for eligible students.

Several colleges and universities in the USA extend their "no-tuition promise" to international students, exemplifying their commitment to accessible higher education. These institutions, often publicly funded, provide tuition-free education to eligible international students, making education more affordable and inclusive.

By welcoming international students under the no-tuition promise, these schools not only promote diversity but also offer an opportunity for students from around the world to access quality education in the United States, contributing to a global learning environment and fostering cultural exchange. Here are some institutions in the USA that have a no-tuition policy.

- Alice Lloyd College
- Antioch College
- The Apprentice School
- Barclay College
- Berea College
- College of the Ozarks
- Curtis Institute of Music
- Deep Springs College
- University of New Hampshire
- Warren Wilson College
- Webb Institute
- Williamson College of the Trades ---are all institutions that do not charge any tuition from any student. However, these institutions are highly competitive and have an extremely low acceptance rate.
